

Patient Notification of Possible Office Procedures

Please be aware that we may need to perform certain in-office procedures which enable us to determine the correct diagnosis, or the most appropriate treatment for your medical condition.

If performed, these diagnostic procedures are billed as an additional item charge on your office visit statement. Even though these procedures are done to diagnose a problem, your insurance carrier may classify them as "surgical procedures." If that is the case, the charge may be subject to the surgical deductible of your insurance plan. You will, therefore, be responsible for covering any deductible payment.

The most common diagnostic procedures performed in this office which may fall under your surgical deductible are Nasal Endoscopy, Nasopharyngoscopy, and Flexible Laryngoscopy.
